FRV-1 ??

by Vim Fuego » 10 Jul 2013, 20:05

The search function didn't reveal any posts regarding the FRV-1 (63 Fender Reverb) - has anybody tried this?

I once stated that nothing COSM sounds good - but maybe this one is different? I would like to give it a try if it comes recommended by you fine gentlemen

The one pedal out of this series (FBM, FDR, FRV) that I really (really) like. I'd buy a second one in a heartbeat if I found one cheap.

And it's the only one of the series that I don't have.

It's a nice pedal. I think it's one of the better spring emulations I've heard. In fact I'd probably only get rid of mine if I got a genuine and well-specced spring reverb.

I don't have the RV-5 either, so I really do need to pick up one of the BOSS reverb pedals. I only have reverb on my amp, but then it's either on or off, whereas with a pedal I could easily decide when to use it or not use it in my pedal chain.

Love mine. Can't use amp verb anymore. Will never part with it, and I second Lauries comment, it's one of the few pedals I'd buy a spare for.

Thats it - I'm gonna buy my first brand new BOSS pedal in 25 or 30 years I guess

Thanks for your opinions

I love mine, and paid full price for it. I don't think I've done that with many (if any) boss pedals. I've seen them for about half the money I spent second hand. I'd get one of them. I had to buy my one new as there was no real second hand market at the time. The pedal had pretty much just came out.
It's never been off my board since I got it.
I will add that I have never played with any of the RV series, but have one of the micro rack reverbs.

How does it compare to the RV-3?

Not at all. Different animal.

Very different. I don't think there's ever been a Boss like it, as this one only emulates a spring reverb tank. The controls are minimal enough to be obvious and flexible enough to be useful. Plus it sounds good.

PGS demo of the pedal. Watching it again reminds me of how much I like mine. It's sounded great with every amp I've put it in front of. I really need to play around with the control on it some more, it's been set for the same configuration for I don't know, maybe a year now
