NPD: DD-6

by WhereBoysFearToTread » 09 May 2013, 00:14

I got this in the mail today.
seems to be working fine cept for a slight crackling when I was turning one of the knobs but I sprayed the pedal a bit and I hope Ill get rid of it.

mostly bought it for the reverse and warp-modes.

5 years ago I had a DD-5 but the reverse mode on the DD-6 seems to work better.

anyone else here use or own the DD-6?

The warp sound is my favorite DD-6 mode.

Funny. So many guys love that mode. I found it annoying.

tried the warp-mode. didnt think much of it.

would be cooler if they had a mode that made the pedal start self-oscillating instead.

And include an fx loop to add your own effects to the echoes.

The DD6 does do something else on the Loop Mode: The soundquality gets worse, like a cassette being played over and over again. To test this for yourself: Loop something and leave on for 20 min. and sound will get fuzzy.
Some of you may like this, as the clarity goes, the notes are still there.
Reminds me a bit of some of the older digitech which do sound on sound: Loop a few ideas and first loop gets fuzzy.

Overal DD6 is as good as any of the DD's

The warp function works very well combined with the feedback mode of the DF-2. You need to get the right mix with your controls. For live-playing maybe best used in one particular spote, and make sure you notate your settings so you can always get that killer sound.
Enjoy!
