D'you suppose Kerry King would carry his pedals in a bag like this?

Pretty cool right!

It would be rather nice if they did a case per model, and left the case decal for the knobs blank, so you could pen in your settings

Haven't found any more as yet..

Those are cool! Sometimes I travel with a pedal or two in my ruck, and a case like that would keep them from knocking around.

I wonder what the back story on these are - there's not a single hit on Google that I can find about it, other than this site. Was this a Boss company internal issue only? Usually all the other oddball stuff they do, like USB sticks, backpacks, mice, gold plated pedals, etc, you can find some reference to it online as it leaks out into the community, but this is truly skunk-works.

Kicking myself for not getting it now!

I always eye up those digi camera carry cases but always found them to be too slim, these would be perfect, esp. for that gig where one or two individual pedals are required.

A little more digging reveals another version in the same box.....a deck of playing cards in a mock up TU-2 Tuner, madness

Must be rather rare!

Is this the kind of thing you'd find in a Fukubukuro bag? Apologies for not knowing enough about the custom, if I'm completely off base.

awesome looks like that boss pedal is on a camping trip. I so want one.

Also reminded me of how much I want this:
