BOSS DM-2 versions

by acrosswaves » 15 Jan 2012, 08:16

can anyone help me sort my curiosities? hehe...they say that boss DM-2 has 3 versions: DM-2, DM-2A, DM-2B, based on your expert opinion, which version is best and why? coz i have no way of comparing them...hehehe...if u too, got the luck to try these 3 versions. haha...any reply would be much appreciated. thanks!
acrosswaves

Re: BOSS DM-2 versions

by strangekomet » 15 Jan 2012, 08:19

whichever one you can get your hands on welcome to the forum!

strangekomet

Re: BOSS DM-2 versions

by acrosswaves » 15 Jan 2012, 08:26

@strangekomet nice answer! hehe--thanks!

acrosswaves

Re: BOSS DM-2 versions

by strangekomet » 15 Jan 2012, 10:00

as far as i'm aware there isn't an awful lot of difference between the three... never had the chance to try all of them though.
i have a dm-2(b) and it is rather lovely, and i believe the most common of the lot...

strangekomet

Re: BOSS DM-2 versions

by jmptpete » 15 Jan 2012, 12:08

I have owned all of them. They are all great, however, I am partial to the 1st version with the Panasonic MN3005 chip. It sounds a little bit brighter than the others. This is my opinion though.

jmptpete

Re: BOSS DM-2 versions

by Zerksies » 15 Jan 2012, 15:07

There are a few versions, but in my years of selling the only thing that matter is what chip is usually in it. The higher priced 1st version is what people are looking for. I have never tried it though

Zerksies

Re: BOSS DM-2 versions

by verivorax » 16 Jan 2012, 01:47

The 2nd edition of the DM-2 service notes indicates that the chip changeover occurred at serial number .

There was a great thread on BA about the changeover date, and whether or not the chip change and a widening of the word "Delay" on the treadle happened around the same time..

verivorax