BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by fuzzbuzzfuzz » 31 Jan 2013, 11:35

So I am aware that I can buy knobs, a new front foot plate/rubber plastic bit, gromit for the screw. But is there any other bits available? for example a new rear sticker/decal? (Of course that might confuse the hell out of people buying MIT vs MIJ etc), just curious though...

fuzzbuzzfuzz

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by FastEddie » 31 Jan 2013, 13:56

Sorry, but Boss does not sell them

FastEddie

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by Pepe » 31 Jan 2013, 15:06

I'm curious if BOSS Japan may have them. Have you contacted them in Hamamatsu already?

Pepe

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by Laurie » 31 Jan 2013, 15:18

I went through this with Roland Canada a few years ago. There are no "historical" parts available. If a part is still used in something then you can get it. Old ACA pedal parts that are no longer used (for example)... are simply not available.

Laurie

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by 71Smallbox » 31 Jan 2013, 15:46

Your best bet would be to buy broken non-working parts from whatever Boss era you needed. Probably not a cost effective way, but unfortunately your only option.

71Smallbox

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by fuzzbuzzfuzz » 01 Feb 2013, 14:42

Thanks for the reply gents. I`m not super-fussed in obtaining some - but was curious nether the less, and its nice to make a pedal complete. I suppose a junk BOSS pedal could easily provide the label, I hadn`t thought of that!

fuzzbuzzfuzz

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by Pepe » 01 Feb 2013, 16:29

I haven't seen many junk BOSS pedals this far. The only one that ever crossed my way was an MIT DD-3 with a faulty processor. But even this one isn't really scrap - cctsim wants to put in another IC that should sound terrific in his opinion. I'm excited to hear the result. Either Laurie or cctsim managed to repair all the defective pedals I have acquired in the last two or three years. And most times the pedals had minor faults, so I could repair them myself. A completely blown BOSS circuit is something I haven't seen before.

Pepe

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by Dirk » 01 Feb 2013, 17:10

We've seen Basstyra's drowned CE-3...

Dirk

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by DB Cooper » 01 Feb 2013, 19:20

^^^Major Mojo

DB Cooper

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by Dirk » 01 Feb 2013, 20:55

Yes, good thing I saved the whole photo series back then:

Dirk

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by The_Doc » 01 Feb 2013, 20:58

Great to see old crusty again

Can anyone remember what happened to it in the end - did it end up on the great pedalboard in the sky or was it repaired?

The_Doc

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by fuzzbuzzfuzz » 02 Feb 2013, 15:51

Wow - now that CE-3 has been through alot!

Its true actually, even "junk" seems to be something daft over here too like a blown LED

fuzzbuzzfuzz

Re: BOSS compact pedal reproduction parts?

by Dirk » 02 Feb 2013, 18:55

> The_Doc wrote:
> Can anyone remember what happened to it in the end - did it end up on the great pedalboard in the sky or was it repaired?

I can't remember.

Compressor
Sustainer
CS-3