EH-2 Enhancer

Anyone else using an EH-2? I recently got a really good deal and picked one up. I rad quite a bit about huge pedal first. And at first, just like many had shared, I didn't really notice anything different. But after playing for around 15 minutes I turned it off and... wow! I noticed a big, big difference in the sound. The EH-2 really does add brilliance and hi-end shimmer, like a "bright switch" and since I'm runny a long pedal chain, it was needed. I just never knew how much I needed it. Anyone else?

You describe what some of us have experienced in the past. You hear it when it's off. I should use my EH-2 more often.

I try to avoid having to use it. Keep the number of pedals down to six or so, which is a challenge of course! And keep the the big tone suckers out of the chain. Like the CS-2, bummer, great compressor but altering the tone too strongly. Used to EQ a lot, but found that good pickups and the right, and not too many, pedals do the job. I'd like to try out the EH-2 one day however.

I mainly keep the EH-2 if I have to record vocal stuff again oneday. In thepast it always sounded way toodull and the EH-2 has a really nice way to brighten up any sound.

This thread just gave me gas. I've had a couple EH-2's in the past but never with my current set up. Would be fun to play with one again.
