Top five pedals you used to own and wish you still had

1. Strymon El Capistan D'tape echo -went to Oz, sad to lose this masterpiece of tonal delight, I got my Echo Nugget to make up for it, but the El Cap is epic.

2. Dwarfcraft Shiva Fuzz - wish I had another one really , really bad. It was a destroyer of Vedic proportions. Did a Youtube demo.

3. RMC Teese Picture Wah - The very picture of Wahfection. Replaced by my original Stack of dimes, but I miss this one..

4. Ravish Sitar- In spite of nearly 10 thousand Youtube hits for my demo , I sold it out of pure shame for sickening hundreds with my dirty toes. Lets not talk about it.

5. DD-20 Giggedy Giggedy GigaDelay

Can't really think of five that i miss THAT much...sorta wish i still had the old DOD analogue chorus i used to use in the 80's as it did a better fast wobble/leslie than the CE-2 plus it was stereo.....apart from that i only wish i knew then what i know now on all the old Les Pauls,335's amps pedals etc i was offered or saw being sold for stupid money.....

PW-2, but I sent it along on the world pedal tour, so I don't feel too badly about it. It was so wonderfully minty in its own cheddar coloured way.

Better not to have a fifth one because this is a list of stuff you regret losing, right? I guess that means if it was really worth a damn, you just kept it.

1. Russian Big Muff (the big one, from the early 90's) - I have another but the first was in excellent condition. I sold it to a friend, he still has it.

.... that's about it. I don't think there's anything else I miss.

Boss SG-1 (damn, that thing was MINT)
Boss CE-1 (I loved the sound but it was just too big)
Boss SL-20 (I don't even know why I flipped it - guess I needed the money for other pedals)
Boss OD-1E (I still have B and D, but for sake of completion - yeah, I should've kept it)

No fifth one either...
