Boss Distortion Chart

by Guga Ramone » 09 Apr 2012, 12:17

Hi everybody!
From time to time Boss shows this distortion chart:

I wonder where all the other dirt pedals belongs in the graphic. What if we try to complete it with ALL the dirt pedals Boss ever released?

Guga Ramone

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by Pepe » 09 Apr 2012, 12:21

It has been done in the "BOSS Book". Buy one! NOW!

Pepe

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by Guga Ramone » 09 Apr 2012, 12:28

All the pedals? Even the new ones? (ST-2, ML-2, those fender ones...)?

Anyway, I've never found the book here in Brazil, but I'll try to grab one as soon as possible. =)

Guga Ramone

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by Zerksies » 09 Apr 2012, 12:50

I don't know how a SD-1 is more natural sounding then a BD-2

Zerksies

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by Pepe » 09 Apr 2012, 15:05

The BOSS Book is great! And it can cause GAS...

Pepe

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by 944cabby » 09 Apr 2012, 21:13

Interesting to see how the ds2 turbo 1 and the turbo 2 are both on opposite sides on that graph - rough and smooth.
I've never tried one of these - how do they compare to the original ds-1?

944cabby

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by Guga Ramone » 10 Apr 2012, 03:03

Mode I of the DS-2 is very close to the DS-1, when they are set to sound similar. They have differences but I really doubt anyone could tell in a band situation. Mode II is another beast, tho. It has a huge mid range boost that can be annoying. Also, it causes a loss of bass that can make your sound really thin. This mode really makes your guitar stands out in the mix, but it's not a very natural sounding... I like the DS-2 because of the versatility of having two modes, but I think the DS-1 still sounds better.

Guga Ramone

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by mcdibble » 12 Apr 2012, 18:34

Someone prepared to (sacrlige) scan the boss book image?
I'm geeky but poor!

David

I won't use it commercialy!

mcdibble

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by mcdibble » 19 Apr 2012, 16:04

Going to have to buy the book then...

David

mcdibble

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by Pepe » 19 Apr 2012, 16:24

You didn't really expect us to reveal something out of that glorious book?! Buy it - you won't regret it. Only if you cannot control your GAS anymore.

Pepe

Re: Boss Distortion Chart

by Guga Ramone » 19 Apr 2012, 19:20

The book's on the way to my house! hehehe Hope it doesn't take too long.

BUT we could complete the chart with the drive pedals that were released AFTER the book. What do you think? ST-2, ML-2, FBM-1, FDR-1, BC-2, DN-2, FZ-5 are still without a place in the chart. I've never played with them, so I'd like to know where they fit.

Guga Ramone