Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by Mully » 15 Feb 2012, 09:37

that seems interesting:

http://www.carlmartin.com/product_headroom.htm
http://www.carlmartin.com/headroom_review_guitarist.pdf

Mully

Re: Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by DeFrag » 15 Feb 2012, 16:53

Very, VERY cool.

DeFrag

Re: Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by visserman » 20 Feb 2012, 15:04

Looks like a quality box!!
On a critical note: Springreverb without any springs??..!!..??

visserman

Re: Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by Mully » 01 Mar 2012, 06:46

wait... what?

without springs?

Mully

Re: Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by Mully » 01 Mar 2012, 06:50

Mully

Re: Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by visserman » 01 Mar 2012, 18:56

Sorry Mully and thanks for those images man!!,

Now that looks like a great pedal, probably one of the better ones really.
Did not anticipate that it would come with real springs. Looked again at the manual and it does mention something about springs, so there we are, next time I should not post that quickly and be a bit more observant.

Keep up the good news!!!

visserman

Re: Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by Zerksies » 01 Mar 2012, 23:55

They do look live they make some good quality stuff. And no plastic washers

Zerksies

Re: Finally a 9V Spring Reverb Pedal

by Mully » 02 Mar 2012, 09:22

well since I know where to get the perfect metal washers I'm not concerned about plastic washers anymore.....

Mully