Anyone know when production of the CE-1 stopped?

Does anyone know when production of the CE-1 stopped? How much overlap (if any) was there with the CE-2?

Thanks!

Think they stopped making them around early to mid 79. Cause the CE-2 was released in 0ct 79. This is what i can find out on the web. I know the one with serial number 00001 sold in the USA and couple of years back for $850

The one thing in question is that I can't find any definitive proof/account that the CE-1 stopped right at the start of the CE-2. Definitely seems logical it would stop then, just wondering if anyone knows for sure (or reasonably sure)?

I wouldn't of thought they were still making them right upto the release of the CE-2. Am sure someone will know this evening. Why the question, has someone offered you one that they say was the last one made ?

No special buy/sell reason (I do already have a nice-condition CE-1, and really dig it). Someone asked on TGP, and while there are a bunch of speculative answers, he can't get a definitive response. I know there's a good chance there are a few folk on here who'll know for sure.

I find I get quicker and better answers here.

According to this the CE-1 was 1976 and 1977 only, but that could easily be wrong:

I pulled out my copy of "The Boss Book" and they have a chart that shows the production start dates of all Boss pedals. It's still not the actual 'production' end date though, just the sales end date.

According to the chart, the CE-1 was produced starting from June 1976 and sales discontinued in May 1984.

Here's a pic of the chart:

That doesn't seem correct to me but seeing it just sales it could be possible due to old stock in the warehouse. Strange it started and finished after the CE-2

Worth noting: The Boss Book is a very reliable source.

It should be said that Boss produced some pedals and products for the Japanese market for a lot longer then the western one(ie Dc-3) so it shouldn't surprise anyone that the Ce-1 was produced until 84. Now wheather that was for the whole world or just Japan is another question.
