TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by Laurie » 08 Jun 2013, 02:12

I've been poking around YouTube looking at demos. Can't decide if it is actually useful.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=KvuxHQq6EtI

Laurie

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by natthu » 08 Jun 2013, 07:11

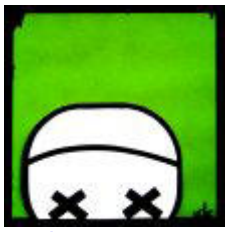
I have decided that it's definitely not useful (for me).
I won't be purchasing one unless I get it for a ridiculously low price... even then, I doubt I'll want to keep it.
I would be interested to hear what you think of it if you got to try it out in person though.



natthu

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by Laurie » 08 Jun 2013, 15:49

I'm coming to the same conclusion. I tried to audition one yesterday but my local store didn't have one. That's telling in itself I think... they are 100% business oriented, so if it isn't selling they won't stock it. And no one here appears to have one yet. User reviews are very sparse on the www too. I wonder if it will become an SG-1 in 30 years?

Laurie

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by Pepe » 08 Jun 2013, 17:08

Well, in that case make sure you buy a dozen of them.

Pepe

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by Monotremata » 08 Jun 2013, 19:28

Oooh Im gonna start relicing them right now!!

Monotremata

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by sclitheroe » 09 Jun 2013, 00:01

Light picking / low settings sound interesting, but that modulated zipper-like decay sound (I have no idea how else to describe it) it does doesn't appeal to me at all. Sounds like a special effect, rather than just an effect.

sclitheroe

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by visserman » 09 Jun 2013, 13:40

Oh it is the Tera Echo again, I had to check link as I had forgotten what model number TE-2 stood for.
Well that pedal does sound interesting to me, but no interest in any new pedals yet.

visserman

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by fuzzbuzzfuzz » 09 Jun 2013, 13:54

Tried the MO pedal the other day in shop, through a JC-120. Here`s my thoughts.

- Firstly it has that digital chorus vibe - recalling my DC-3, slightly stilted and cheesy but can be tamed back.

- ..add Pitch shift, octave up (ala a PS series) and an Octave below (on setting three)
- Nice Leslie tones in positions 1 and 2, had a good swirl and a bit of inbuilt drive, I tried the "Badge" riff to death.
- Easy to sound like Prince and go zipping back to the 80s! oops
- 4 knobs fairly intuitive, BUT the final selector knob which clicks between 1,2 and 3 modes will lose its "notch" - not a fan of those, this store demo jobby was already too easy in flicking between the modes...

I DID play it for quite a while, coming up with new riffs - a good sign though

My worries are that its overall vibe has a bit of that proccessed flat vibe, not throbby, organic, the same thing that killed my PH-3 love. I`m also not a big fan of how digital pedals handle drive either post or pre, get crunchy and artifacts come through, hard to tell on this occasion as the JC-120s drive is not exactly smooth!

Overall I`d have one if it were used/half price and I wanted a Leslie sound. But I have a feeling I could cop those tones with my OC-2/PS-2/Chorus combo...hmmm Wouldn`t tocuh the DA and the TE-2 - no thanks!

fuzzbuzzfuzz

Re: TE-2 ... anyone have one yet?

by 2+2=5 » 24 Jun 2013, 06:40

NOTHING NEW TO ME…

2+2=5