Almost right

Actually its only the 10 million anniversary plate itself - attached to some obscure pedal ?? Wonder what happened to the original pedal..

But I could just not resist getting it anyway.

Why does someone do that? It's like putting a Porsche anniversary plate to a Citroën or a Škoda.

I bet you could sell the amp, guitar and 2 pedals to get your $175 back. Then you'd get a free ME-X, Boss plate and belt!

I do like the brakes on the amp caster wheels - nobody wants a runaway amp haha. Didn't notice the belt when I first looked at this.

Is it some sort of special belt? Or just a belt?

I'm guessing the ME-X has defective latches - so the belt has been used to keep it together (did that myself with my first ME-X)

Looks like a silver buckle, so I'm guessing its special.

What was wrong? The comment about the guitar or the Yamaha amp's distortion?

So many things was wrong ..

1: I couldn't figure out how to delete my post
2: Now I have to start collecting the metal case Soundtanks
