Got this a little while back....

by DasBeef » 02 Nov 2012, 09:06

But it's off to see a guy who worked on a couple of my guitars next week. Needs a little work. Kinda belated NGD!!! 1977 Bronco.....

DasBeef

Re: Got this a little while back....

by natthu » 02 Nov 2012, 14:12

Wow... nice one

Those are pretty rare, and that looks to be in pretty good condition.

natthu

Re: Got this a little while back....

by Arpeggiator » 02 Nov 2012, 16:54

HNGD!

I can't say that I find them particularly beautiful, but I like (almost) all things Fender, so I kinda dig it regardless.

The trem looks interesting - how does it compare to the Mustang trem? I love my old Mustang, but the trem system sucks. Badly.

Arpeggiator

Re: Got this a little while back....

by DasBeef » 02 Nov 2012, 17:35

Personally, I pretty much hate trems. I don't like the Mustang trem, and I don't like this one. Seems pretty complicated, and looks like it will be a pain in the ar$e to setup. I think spares will be a major issue for it should I need them as well. Anyway, I just think it's a cool guitar.
It's not in good condition, the lighting has just 'shopped' out the dings. The neck feels amazing, and the sound is pretty good. I'm not convinced the pup is original, but we'll see. I think once this is setup, and a couple of minor electrical/electrical part faults are sorted this will be a very fun instrument.

DasBeef

Re: Got this a little while back....

by Arpeggiator » 02 Nov 2012, 20:22

IMO, the only Fender trem system that works well is the Jazzmaster one.

Arpeggiator

Re: Got this a little while back....

by natthu » 03 Nov 2012, 05:18

> DasBeef wrote:
> ...It's not in good condition, the lighting has just 'shopped' out the dings...

Sneaky... I guess I'll have to change my statement to "Looks like it has loads of mojo" then...

> Arpeggiator wrote:
> IMO, the only Fender trem system that works well is the Jazzmaster one.

Yeah, I love JM trems. I don't use mine very often though and a couple of my Fender offsets have a faux hardtail stop instead of the trem...
I am currently working on adding a JM trem to one of my Teles (like some of the old Japanes Gyatone Tele guitars had).
JM trems are no good for dive bombing Johnny Demarco style, if that's what you're into (I'm not).

natthu

Re: Got this a little while back....

by DasBeef » 03 Nov 2012, 05:33

This is almost perfect to me.....

DasBeef

Re: Got this a little while back....

by Mully » 09 Nov 2012, 13:06

schweeet
always on the lookout for a decent musicmaster but broncos are nice as well....

Mully

Re: Got this a little while back....

by DasBeef » 09 Nov 2012, 14:45

Me too buddy, me too.

http://www.chandlerguitars.co.uk/product_Detail.php?ItemID=3664

DasBeef

Re: Got this a little while back....

by gurran1928 » 30 Dec 2012, 12:56

NIce guitar! +1

gurran1928